

Security Incident Brief for Management

A simulated cyber-attack attempt was detected on a test server within the organization's network environment. The Security Operations Centre (SOC) team responded promptly by analysing the alert, isolating the affected system, and implementing necessary containment measures. No critical data loss or operational disruption was observed. Preventive recommendations have been proposed to strengthen overall cybersecurity readiness.